RETURN TO WORK—CONTACT YOUR CLAIMS REP TODAY!

Transitional return-to-work (TRTW) programs facilitate injured employees' return to work while they are still healing by placing them in temporary work assignments that comply with all medically defined work restrictions outlined by the treating provider. Placement can be either at the employer's location or a variety of non-profit organizations.

WHAT IS THE GOAL OF A TRANSITIONAL RETURN-TO-WORK PROGRAM?

Transitional return-to-work programs provide an option for employers who are unable to accommodate the injured worker's physical restrictions—bridging the gap between the injured worker's existing work capacity and what their employer can offer.

Transitional return-to-work offers:

- Services provided telephonically in all 50 states
- A team of specialist trained specifically to provide this service
- An advocate for you and your injured worker
