

LOSS CONTROL SERVICE

At Acuity, we offer expert loss control services to our commercial customers at no extra charge. We don't measure results by how many recommendations are made or how many times we visit an insured. Instead we help our customers achieve results by assisting with safety and loss prevention initiatives. We don't "inspect"—we work as a partner to minimize or eliminate a business' risk of future losses which could affect the bottom line.

The Acuity Difference:

- Our Loss Control Representatives are safety and insurance professionals, having college degrees and technical certifications, with an average of 25 years of experience in the field.
- We have Loss Control Representatives in all areas of the country where we write commercial insurance.
- We begin by assessing a customer's management structure, operations, hazards, and facilities.
- At every visit, Loss Control Representatives will analyze past losses to determine trends and potential problem areas. We also share industry benchmarking information for comparison.
- We assess the likelihood and severity of losses for all lines of insurance and draw on our experience to offer effective strategies and solutions to improve results.

Acuity Loss Control Representatives can:

- Advise on Early Return to Work issues, ergonomics, fire protection topics, and fleet safety controls
- Provide guidance on OSHA, NFPA, DOT and other safety and health regulations
- Assist in enhancing existing safety programs or offer model programs developed by Acuity
- Guide comprehensive accident analyses and investigations to help determine the root cause of accidents and recommend corrective actions
- Lead safety meetings and training for employees, supervisors, and managers
- Distribute quality safety literature, toolbox talks, and videos from Acuity and partner vendors like J.J. Keller & Assoc.
- Assist with noise reduction initiatives by sampling industrial noise levels and recommending controls when necessary
- Conduct safety walk-throughs at job sites or commercial properties
- Provide OSHA 10-Hour Training (to businesses that qualify)

Our Loss Control Representatives have the knowledge, experience, and tools to determine the right actions based on a company's management style, operations, and employees. Every day we take a fact-based approach to assess and control risk so that our customers' assets are protected. Acuity Loss Control—making a difference!
